JEWELS VALUED
AT $600 LOST.*Mrs. Arno Shuman Drops a Purse Containing the Valuables.*LIKELY DROPPED ON STREET*When Chain of Silver Purse Broke.
Also Contained Sum of Money and Large Reward Will Be Paid for Return to Mrs. Shuman.

Jewels valued at more than $600 were lost last evening when a silver purse carried by Mrs. Arno Shuman was lost, supposedly between the Scottdale theatre and the Lyric. The loss occurred sometime before 10 o'clock, for at that hour Mr. and Mrs. Shuman returned to the Lyric hotel, where they are stopping, and the loss was discovered. Today every effort is being made to locate the missing jewels.

Mrs. Shuman told Burgess Evans this morning, when the loss was reported to the police, that she had her purse in the Lyric, for she remembered taking out her handkerchief, an hour or so later the purse and jewels had vanished. It is believed the silver chain, which held the purse to Mrs. Shuman's arm, broke and permitted the purse to fall to the ground. The purse itself was valuable. It was of finely woven German silver, lined with silk. It would have made but little noise had it fallen on the pavement.

The Shumans live in Philadelphia. Mr. Shuman is connected with the Continental Press-Globe Company of Dunbar and is a frequent business visitor here. He was located here permanently a few years ago. Mrs. Shuman frequently accompanies him to Connellville and is widely acquainted here. The couple always make their home at the Lyric when here.

Jewelry stores were notified of the missing jewels and given a description of them by the police. The Pittsburgh authorities were also notified of the loss and will keep watch on the pawn brokers in event the jewels are found and an attempt made to dispose of them.

The purse contained a gold watch and chain, a diamond brooch, a ring set in diamonds and emeralds, one set in diamonds and opals, a diamond pendant, a pair of jade ear rings, a pair of sapphire ear rings, a pin containing three rubies, a sapphire blue ring and a diamond pin, four leaf clover design. The diamond brooch alone is valued at $250 and the ear-rings at $125.

A liberal reward will be paid for the return of the missing jewels should they happen to be found. Mrs. Shuman is hopeful that the purse was picked up along the street by someone who is awaiting news of the loss in order to return the property to its owner.

Pay Dog Taxes
or Lose Animals

Tax collector H. C. Norton yesterday mailed notices to those against whom a dog tax is levied warning them that unless the tax is paid within 10 days the dogs will be killed. A recent act of assembly provides that dog taxes must be paid by August 31 of each year under penalty of having the animals forfeited by countable.

The notices will probably bring results, but unfortunately the American managed to enroll only a small proportion of Connellville's canine population.

Sells Millinery Store.

Miss B. Cutler, a well known milliner of Scottdale, disposed of her business Saturday to Mrs. E. H. Atwood of Scottdale. Miss Cutler was in the millinery business in Scottdale for 25 years. This morning she was in town on her way to West Virginia to visit friends and relatives.

A Receiver Appointed for Contractors
Visconti & Soldano on Western Maryland

The court at Uniontown this morning handed down a decree appointing a receiver for the contractors Visconti and Soldano. The decree was given today by Judge in bankruptcy at Uniontown, who became involved in financial difficulties. The defendants to the equity suit instituted by the Western Maryland Grocery Company joined with the plaintiff in the prayer for a receiver. They claim that their assets will more than meet their liabilities and that the firm is solvent. The grocery company instituted the proceedings to recover a balance of $155,000. The receiver was required to give $25,000 bond and a list of all creditors in and about Con-

ROBBERS ENTER BED ROOMS

Daring Night Prowler Last Night.

The home of H. W. Bradigan on Washington avenue, South Side, was broken into and robbed by a daring thief last night or early this morning. Two bed rooms were entered while the occupants slept soundly and clothing was gone through and drawers in the bureau turned upside down.

Entrance was gained through a window in one of the down stairs rooms. The window was found open this morning and vines beneath it on the outside were trampled. The front door also stood open when Mr. Bradigan came down stairs. The money

Wm. Rankin Has

Just as he was about to board his own train this morning about 2 o'clock at the local B. & O. station, W. H. Rankin, of South Connellville, a B. & O. conductor met with an accident which resulted in the loss of his left foot above the ankle. His foot caught between two rails, one of which came loose. He was thrown to the ground and the train passed over his left foot.

Rankin was removed to the Cottage State hospital where it was found that the foot was almost off the remainder being taken off after his arrival at the institution. Mr. Rankin is 10 years old and married. He was resting easy today at noon.

Rankin has been a conductor on the fast freight trains running between Connellville and New Castle for several years. He was a candidate for the Legislature last year and polled a nice vote throughout the county. During that canvass he made many friends who will learn of his misfortune with the sincerest regret. About a year ago Conductor Rankin was shot through the hand by a careless B. & O. detective in the yards at New Castle as he was about to take out his train.

Congress Adjourns
the Special Session

United Press Telegram.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—The nine hundredth word was spoken in Congress today and with that record achieved since March 15, the legislature shut up the law-manufacturing shop.

The extraordinary session was terminated this afternoon, to the accompaniment of noisy jubilation in the house and steady and said routine in the Senate.

How the leaders view the special session:

Speaker Champ Clark—On our record we will sweep the country in 1912.

Republican leader James H. Mann—The session strengthened President Taft and weakened the Democrats before the country.

Senator F. E. Warren—The session showed the people that Taft is a safe and sane leader.

Representative Victor Murdock—The country now knows that Congress is responsible to its will, and the judiciary now must be made so.

Stamp Exhibition in Chicago.
CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(Special.)—The twenty-fifth anniversary exhibition of the American Philatelic Society opened in Chicago today, to continue through the remainder of the week. The exhibition has attracted a notable gathering of stamp collectors from all parts of the United States and Canada.

New Hampshire Day in Oregon.
ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 22.—(Special.)—New Hampshire Day was celebrated at the Astoria Centennial today, the exercises having especial reference to the share of the Granite State in the settlement and development of the Pacific Northwest.

Young Couple
Elope to Cumberland

Miss Olive Genevieve Smith, a well known Bell telephone operator, and Ernest Whitmore, a B. & O. mailman, eloped to Cumberland yesterday morning and were united in marriage on the arrival of B. & O. train No. 6. They returned to Connellville last evening. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Connellville and Friday night on leaving the telephone office she stated that she was not well and would not be at work on the following morning. Mr. Whitmore and his bride are both well known in Connellville.

Paul Ross Maxwell and Miss Edna Miller of Rockwood were also married in Cumberland yesterday.

California Stands Treat.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 22.—After the notable demonstration of hospitality given today to Euzio in attendance at the national convention the order now in session here is likely to return home with anything but praise for the city of San Francisco and the State of California.

Local Showers.
Local showers tonight or Wednesday is the noon weather forecast.

ties Gathering at the Park.*MANY AUTOMOBILE PARTIES*Ideal Weather Conditions and Fast Track Mark the First Day's Racing.
Purses Aggregating $1,300 Will Be Awarded Winners Today.

A good sized crowd, gathering at the Dawson race track for the first day's events this afternoon, Greensburg and Uniontown perhaps are sending the largest delegations. There are a number of Greensburg horses entered the strings of Fred Jamison, Joe McGraw and Harry Fleming being at the track. Automobile parties are coming from nearby points in Southwestern Pennsylvania, Scottdale, Mt. Pleasant, Greensburg, Uniontown, Connellville and Monongahela river towns being represented.

The Wallace orchestra, it is not known yet whether the orchestra will again make their headquarters at the Royal in Connellville during the evenings or remain at Dawson.

The little army of candidates who will attend the meet will help considerably in itself in swelling the attendance.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 22.—Unless Attorney E. D. Fulton is able to appear in court Thursday it is possible that the equity suit of Frank Martin and others against L. B. Brownfield, George Patterson and Sam Goldstein may be submitted to the court without argument today but Attorney W. W. Parrish announced that he had been unable to see Mr. Fulton, whom he understood was improving, and did not know what course to pursue.

Attorney A. F. Cooper, appearing for the defendants, declared that his clients "wanted the matter settled; it has been pending so long," he said, the case without arguing it. Judge Umel then directed Attorney Parrish to get in communication with Attorney Fulton before Thursday, if possible, and the matter would be settled then. Judge Umel explained it would be impossible to hear the case next week because of the State Bar Association's meeting.

Both judges were on the bench at this morning's session, routine matters being considered. Despite an eloquent plea of Attorney John Dugan, Jr., Luigi Toland was given the usual sentence of $75 fine or nine months to the workhouse for carrying concealed weapons. Luigi had his grip packed ready to leave it off for coats, but the court was not willing.

The bond of the Monongahela railroad for $5,000 to secure Frank B. Herbert S. Charles P., Rebecca T. Eberhart and Sarah Catherine Ramsay, property owners in New Geneva, from damage, was approved.

The injunction granted C. C. Garrett restraining Ida B. Burt from tearing down a line fence was dissolved today by agreement of counsel.

The defendant made reply yesterday to the injunction declaring there was no intention of tearing down the fence. The dispute of the property line will be settled by the eminent proceeding that have been started.

The Fidelity & Deposit Company of Maryland, capitalized at $2,000,000 and with a $5,000,000 surplus, was qualified as a bonding company to do business in this State.

A rule was issued on Stephen Gajdos to show cause why he should not pay his wife, Susan Gajdos, $200 counsel fees and $20 a week during the pending divorce proceedings. Susan Gajdos also secured a rule on her husband, Joseph and Mary Kacur to show cause why judgment for $300 should not be stricken off. The plaintiff alleges she was assigned the judgment, which her husband later satisfied, unknown to her.

Four assault and battery cases were pressed on motion of District Attorney Henderson. They were those of George P. Tiltow, prosecuted by J. U. McPhee; Harry and Richard Hobben, prosecuted by William Addis, and Mike Jovic, prosecuted by his wife, Mary Jovic.

Auditor at Hospital.
George J. Churchill, auditor of the State Department of Charities, is here from Harrisburg and this morning visited the Cottage State hospital for the purpose of going over the books. As always he found everything in excellent shape and highly complimented Miss Craft, the superintendent, and her assistants on the fine condition in which the books were found.

Dennis Fights
Snakes on Street

Dennis Benson, colored, whose occupation is that of a bar porter, has been troubled with an attack of delirium tremens and is contributing to the uneasiness of the populace at large by breaking out of confinement from time to time.

Sunday Dennis eluded his watchers and paraded the streets in a vain endeavor to shake off the "snakes." He was out again this morning, according to the police. Unless they can keep Dennis at home until his attack is over it may be necessary to use strong repressive measures upon him.

The weather man is the only one who can prevent the biggest day in the history of Shady Grove park tomorrow. The Uniontown Merchants' picnic is scheduled there and as a feature attraction the first aeroplane flight in Fayette county is promised. Only atmospheric conditions will prevent the flight. The rain will not serve to stop it if there is no high wind going and that is hardly likely at this time of the year. The aeroplane was due to arrive at the park this at-

Prominent Man
Accused of Murder

United Press Telegram.
KITTANNING, Pa., Aug. 22.—Cool and self-possessed, George Golden, a shoe merchant of Weicksboro near here, walked into the office of his brother, E. C. Golden, an attorney here, today and submitted to arrest on the charge of murdering his wife on information made against him by his brother-in-law W. A. Shumens.

Golden shot and killed his wife on the morning of July 18 in their room. Golden said he mistook her for a burglar. A moment after his arrest today he was released on $10,000 bail, pending a hearing August 31.

Both the Golden and Shumens families are prominent and influential here. The Shumens family has had detectives investigating the death of Mrs. Golden for some time. At the time of the shooting the coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

No Retrenchment on Pennsylvania

United Press Telegram.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—It was officially stated at the offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company today that rumors from Pittsburgh to effect that a radical retrenchment policy would be put in force which would result in laying off hundreds of men is absolutely without foundation.

The company is now employing as many men as it can get, the statement says.

Drowned in Canada.
Arthur E. Evans of Pittsburgh a brother of Mrs. A. C. Herbert of the West Side was drowned this morning in Canada. The telegram received shortly before noon today by Mrs. Herbert gave no particulars concerning the drowning.

Smith Burns Caught by Falling

Smith Burns, aged 18, employed as a lineman by the Tri-State Telephone Company, was caught by a falling telephone pole at the end of Fairview avenue this morning and seriously hurt. The physician, Dr. M. E. Shupe and S. G. McCune, called to the Burns home after Smith had been removed there, are unable to determine how serious the injuries will prove. The young man is suffering intense pain. Burns was working on the pole when it broke about midway. Some small boys were watching him at work and SCOTSDALE, Aug. 22.—With his skull fractured, so that the brain was plainly visible through the wound, Forrest Wilson, aged 11 years, walked from above Hawkeye, a mile distant yesterday evening, to the office of Dr. James P. Strickler. The boy was the first victim of a serious accident during the fruit season, for with Earl Fisher, William Hilton and Monroe Kelly, he had been hit with a stone, while in an orchard shaking down apples.

The Wilson boy was taken by Dr. L. T. Gilbert in his auto with Dr. J. P. Strickler to the Mt. Pleasant hospital last evening, where the two doctors operated on the boy last night. He was in a serious condition from his wound.

The lad, who is a son of W. A. Wilson, an employee of the Scottdale Fur- nace Company, was in company with the other boys and they were getting apples. A stone was thrown up into a tree and the stone described an arc through the air, coming down on the head of young Wilson.

He had been out at C. C. Bash's farm, west of town, last week, helping in the fruit gathering, and while there had, in fun taken a pair of clippers and run over the lower fringe of his hair, which had grown too long for comfort. He made such a job of it that August Henry took the clippers and clipped the boy's head all over, so that he had no hair to protect him. But the absence of it, if anything, was the best thing for him when he was wounded. The boy's brain showed through the hole in his skull, and with pieces of bone pressing on the brain, the boy, with the other boys taking turns, helping him, traveled all the way from where he was injured to Scottdale.

The Centenary of William Kelly

United Press Telegram.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 22.—Today was the centenary of the birth of William Kelly, who is generally credited with the invention of the Bessemer process for converting melted cast iron into malleable steel, a discovery which revolutionized the steel industry and helped to make Pittsburgh and the neighboring towns one of the greatest industrial centers in the world.

Kelly was born in this city August 22, 1811, and early in life manifested an uncommon aptitude for mechanics. In 1835 he removed to Kentucky, where he acquired an iron works on the Cumberland river. Late it was that he conceived the plan of dispensing with fuel in the process of refining and decarbonizing iron by the introduction of an current of air. After several years of experimenting he finally perfected the process, which was long known as "Kelly's air-blowing process," and which was used for the manufacture of boiler-plates before Sir Henry Bessemer was known. When the latter brought out his process in England in 1856, Mr. Kelly asserted that Bessemer had obtained his knowledge of the process from him in America. Subsequently both inventors applied for patents in the United States, but the commissioner issued one only to Mr. Kelly, acknowledging the priority of his invention of the process.

Paul Beattie's Story Shaken

United Press Telegram.
RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 22.—A witness whose testimony may break down the story of Paul Beattie in the Commonwealth's effort to send Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., to the electric chair for the murder of his wife, was discovered today. H. F. Ellington, an engineer on the Southern railroad, turned up with the declaration that on the night of the killing and at almost the exact spot the gun was found.

If his testimony is unshaken it will destroy the well planned narrative of Paul Beattie, whose wife and mother-in-law have already testified that he was at home and in bed on the night of the killing.

Since the arrest of Henry Clay Beattie the lawyers for the defense have been convinced that Paul didn't tell the whole truth.

Today a score of deputy sheriffs are scouring the outlying districts of Chesterfield county for 16 volunteers from whom the four remaining jurors will be selected to try Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., for the murder of his wife.

Look for Girls in Bellboy Trial

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, August 22.—That a sensation will be uncovered by the defense at the trial of Paul Geldel, the 17-year-old Connecticut bellboy charged with the murder of Henry F. Jackson, the wealthy brokers' cashier, was indicated today in the examination of jurors when counsel for the defense asked each talemale if he knew Josephine Joy, or Sturtevant, of Passaic, N. J., or Helen Hall. The reason for the questions was not explained.

Josephine Joy is the young actress who gained notoriety a month ago when she sent for Helen Dwyer Jenkins, of "misleading women" fame, and asked her to introduce her to some "nice old man."

At noon there were eight jurors in the box and there is little question but that the jury will be completed by evening.

Freedom Denied Alleged Lyncher

United Press Telegram.
WEST CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 22.—Sixteen-year-old George Stahl, arrested in connection with the lynching of Zach Walker at Coatesville, was today denied freedom on habeas corpus proceedings and remanded to jail by Judge William Butler on a charge of murder.

Only two witnesses were examined. They were Policeman Howe and Charlie Whitty. Policeman Howe said he saw Stahl in the jail hospital on the night of the lynching and warned him not to come up stairs.

Whitty said he heard Stahl say: "I'm the one that yelled at Howe; 'You better open that door for we are going to get that nigger.'"

Voltage High but Negro Revives

United Press Telegram.
EDDYVILLE, Ky., Aug. 22.—Oliver Locke, the Louisville negro condemned to death for the murder of his wife, revived in the electric chair in the State prison today after 2,000 volts had been shot through his body. He did not die until several minutes after he had been returned to the chair and 2,500 volts applied.

When the first current was turned on Locke gave a tremendous convulsion and broke the straps which held him in the death chair. His body fell to the floor. Physicians declared he was reviving and ordered him returned to the chair, where a higher current was applied.

MOSQUITOES BAD THIS YEAR

But don't scratch the poisoned skin. Use a mild, cooling, healing compound that stops the itch instantly, draws out the poison in the skin and protects it against further trouble. Just a mild cleansing wash of oil of wintergreen, thymol and a few other ingredients known as the D. D. D. Prescription (so famous in cases of Eczema) and you have mosquito protection for the season.

Yes, instant relief—now only 25c. J. C. Moore, Druggist, Water street, Conneltsville, Pa.

Corn Roast For Guest

About 30 guests were present at a corn roast given last evening at Solon park by the Misses Sauter in honor of their guest, Miss Mae Winkley of Harrisonburg, Va. The guests left here shortly after 7 o'clock and soon after their arrival a large bon fire was built and there was roasting corn in abundance. The affair was held near the lake and Japanese lanterns were used for illumination. Clarence Jacobs of Pittsburg, and Miss Horner of Ohio were out of town guests.

Burgess Lets J. Bird Leave

Burgess Evans was unable yesterday to get a straight story from James Bird, the urchin picked up on the Baltimore & Ohio yards by Thomas C. Phelan, special officer, Sunday night.

The Burgess gave up the task and permitted James to go on his way. He is convinced the lad is not telling the truth but was unable to get any satisfactory information from the lad.

No arrests were made last night and Burgess Evans did not hold police court this morning. Early this morning the police arrested Mrs. Mary Ritchie but who was too drunk to have a trial. She kept up a din from her cell in the women's department but will not have sentence passed until this evening.

PROF. W. H. BELTZ

To Produce New Play at Fairchance in Near Future.

Prof. William H. Beltz of Pittsburg made a short call at The Courier office today on his way to Fairchance, where he will present his new war play, "Under the Flag of the Nation," in the near future. This play written by himself is absolutely new, highly patriotic and spectacular in its presentation. It has been well received in Pittsburg and enthusiastically endorsed by the entire press of the city.

The professor is the father of Engineer Charles E. Beltz, who made the remarkable run on the B. & O. special that bore Joseph Kendall to the bedside of his dying child in Meyersdale a week ago of which occurrence The Courier gave an extensive account.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Given by Friends for Miss Margaret Bruce, Greenwood.

On her arrival home from a month's visit with friends and relatives in Cumberland and Frederick, Md., last evening, Miss Margaret Bruce was tendered a delightful surprise party at her home on South Eighth street, Greenwood. The affair was planned during her absence and about 10 of her friends assembled to welcome her home.

A color scheme of yellow and white was prettily carried out in the floral decorations and luncheon. The evening was pleasantly spent in various games vocal solos by Miss Bruce and piano solos by James Turner Edward Steele and Miss Pearl Butterworth. A delightful feature of the evening was a well arranged luncheon served at a late hour. The out of town guests were Misses Zella and Sarah Hildon of Scotland.

SCOTSDALE COUNCIL IN SPECIAL SESSION.

Delegation of the Y. M. C. A.
Appeared Before
Body.

SEWER MATTER DISPOSED OF

Delegation Was Pleased With the Action That Was Taken by the Members of Council—Personal Mention in Mill Town.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 22.—Town Council held a special meeting last night, with J. F. Berry presiding in the absence of President M. L. Haines. The other members present were W. L. Schaffer, W. H. Sleight, A. D. Findlay, H. G. Maritz, J. M. Pyle, G. I. Barclay and J. W. Plattsburgh. There was a large number of the Y. M. C. A. members and subscribers to the fund to erect the $50,000 Y. M. C. A. building on the corner of Spring street and Grant avenue, present. The reconsideration of the putting in of a short sewer to Liverston avenue to accommodate the swimming pool to be built was brought up. The motion was then made that the sewer be put in. There were only two in opposition to this, J. M. Pyle, who said he believed Contractor C. H. Baldwin would be held up in the paving of Grant avenue, and W. H. Sleight, who had opposed the matter before. Mr. Pyle asked to be excused from voting, but when the chair ruled that he should vote he voted no.

Mr. Barclay said that the contractor, according to the specifications can be called upon to suspend work for a sewer to be built, and that he cannot get anything extra for this, except that the time to complete the job may be extended as many days as he has been delayed.

Brick have been coming in this morning for the paving, but the work has been going along very slowly thus far. The putting in of the sewer will not hold it back very much. Three or four streets are to be paved, but the work is not being pushed any of them.

The Y. M. C. A. and the many who subscribed are pleased over the way in which the sewer question seems to be disposed of. J. M. Zimmerman, in behalf of the citizens thanked Council for its action.

Personal Mention.

More Than 1,000 Dictionaries Have Been Given Out by The Courier.

Popular approval and quick acceptance of the unprecedented dictionary offer made by The Courier, which enables everyone to obtain a standard, authoritative and complete dictionary of the English language at a cost never before deemed possible, has almost swamped the dictionary department with demands of readers for this remarkable book.

Never before in the history of the world has an authoritative edition of the famous Webster's Dictionary been offered to the public under such remarkable circumstances. Here, in a compact volume, is offered all the information concerning word definitions, grammar, usage and literary guidance which even the most erudite scholar could demand.

The dictionary offered by The Courier for six consecutive coupons clipped from the paper and the nominal charge of handling is the most remarkable work ever placed on the market. Besides giving definitions of all the words of the language which the average man or woman would ever have occasion to look up, it includes valuable charts of statistics regarding the commerce and productive resources of the United States, the census for 1910 and hundreds of illustrations, many of them in the form of costly color plates, which are both interesting and instructive.

In fact, the Webster's New Standard Dictionary, illustrated, now obtainable at such astonishing rates from the office of The Courier, is an encyclopedia.

The boys with their din and noise enjoyed themselves and made the night air hideous with their buckets, bells, horns, etc., later on were augmented by those of a larger growth who could make a bigger noise which was continued until they reached that which would tend to fill a sweet tooth and satisfy a hungry appetite. The young couple anticipate remaining a Perryopolis with the bride's parents for a time.

Classification
Yards at Somerset

Special to The Courier.

SOMERSET, Aug. 22.—The site selected for the Somerset & Ohio classification yards, just south of town, is the scene of active operations. The Erie-Shoreman Company who have the contract for filling Knutner's dam which is included in the plot of ground required for the yards, has a large force of men at work making preparations for the large undertaking. Work on the grading for the yards will be vigorously pushed in order that as much as possible may be accomplished before winter.

The contractors already have one steam shovel on the scene, and the six-foot bank extending four or five hundred feet north of Edgewood Grove is rapidly being removed to ward Cox's creek where it is utilized for filling five "dikes" locomotives with the usual quota of dirt cars have been placed at the grading operation and four or five temporary tracks which will be needed for filling up the dam have already been laid. Necessary blacksmith shops, which had been in use at Hubbard during the construction of the Boswell Somerset cut-off by the same contractors, have been removed to the site of the new yards, and the quiet coming along Cox's creek has been transformed into an industrial center.

The yards will be one and one-half miles in length and nine tracks wide. In order that the yard tracks may be as near straight as possible, the S. & O. line along Edgewood Grove will be changed. The dangerous curve at the southeastern corner of the grove is to be eliminated, which will necessitate the appropriation of part of the park by the railroad company. To do away with the curve will necessitate a cut, thirty feet deep at some points, from the grove to a point near Roberts Station. This cut will require more digging than any other railroad work ever undertaken in this section. It is said the cut will be in the neighborhood of one hundred feet in width at the bottom. With the sides sloping at the regulation angle it will be considerable wider at the top, entailing a great amount even for steam shovels. Two steam shovels will be put to work on the cut this week. The cut will be between one-half and three-quarters of a mile in length.

Filling Knutner's dam and providing a substitute water course farther east will require a great deal of work. Hundreds of men will be employed from now until next spring. When filled the dam will be an ideal site for railroad yards, taken in connection with the large cut at Edgewood Grove which was necessary both to eliminate the curve and make possible the mile and a half length of the yards. The grade when the yards are completed will be practically level.

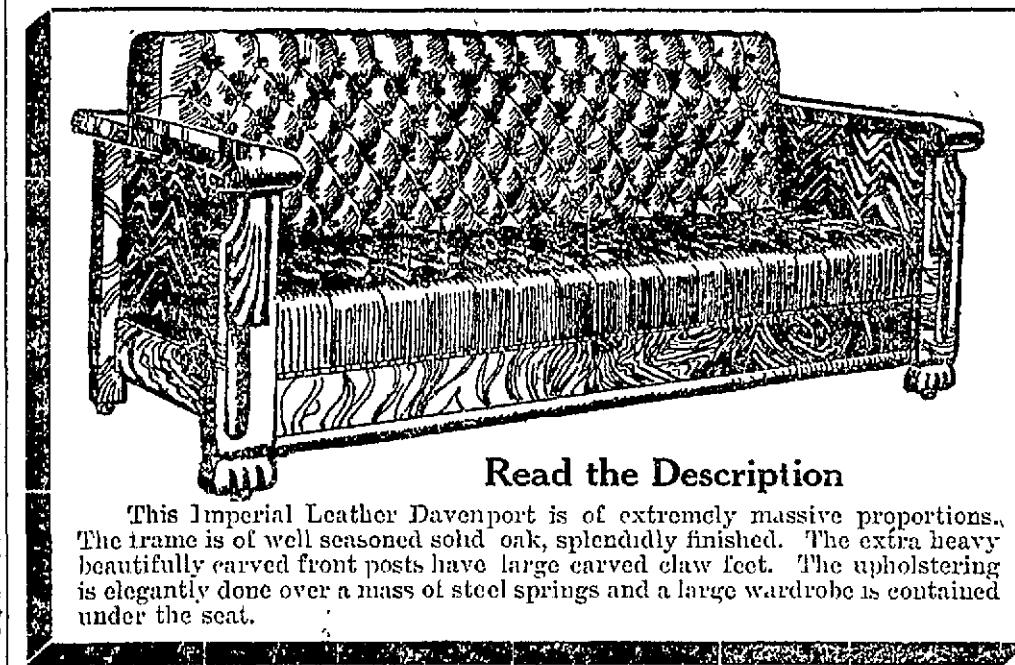

In the yards trains loaded with coal from the Tenner Quarries field will be made up and classified ready for transportation to tide water.

Diphtheria Victim
Near Scottdale

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Aug. 22.—Diphtheria has claimed a victim near Reigantown west of Scottdale, and the neighborhood fears the spread of the disease. Albert Walter Liebi, aged five years, a son of Carl Liebi, a prominent farmer and butcher, died of the disease on Monday morning and was buried today at Zion cemetery at 10:30. On account of the disease there was no funeral, the burial being entirely private.

Preparing for Ringgold Reunion at Bellevue on the Coming Week.

BELLEVUE, Aug. 22.—Preparations are fast being completed for the reunion of the Ringgold Battalion (Twenty-second Pennsylvania Cavalry) to be held in Bellevue on August 30 and 31. The reunion of the war heroes will be made up of those from many places over the country and the town's own soldiery will give them a royal welcome.

The various committees met the first of the week and on comparing notes found that each had been busy, right out on the firing line. W. S. Harvey has been chosen chief marshal, with power to select his own aides.

The battalion will form on Main street at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in front of the Odd Fellows' building, where they will be welcomed. It is thought Col. A. J. Greenfield, of Chicago, will respond. The soldiers will then disband and go to the various hotels and restaurants for dinner.

The parade will move at 6:30, and afterwards the soldiers will assemble in Taggart's hall, where they will hold their campfire. The Grand Army of the Republic, the Sons of Veterans, the Bellevue Rifles, military organizations from the towns in the Monongahela valley and secret societies are all invited to participate.

John M. Stumm and Capt. J. B. Gibson of Monongahela, came up on Sunday afternoon and after hearing the reports of the different committees were well pleased with the arrangements. Invitations were to be sent out this week to the members of the Ringgold battalion that all attend this, the thirty-eight annual reunion.

The Bellevue Rifles having been honored by having extended to them the privilege of inviting the independent military companies of the Valley, are leaving no stone unturned to make their division of the parade—the Monongahela provisional battalion—a grand success. Maj. James H. Correll and Capt. and Adj. A. C. Dannels have visited Pittsburgh, Brownsville, Monessen, Charleroi and Monongahela and have met with success at all points. The Brownsville Light Infantry, commanded by Capt. Fred Wright, and Capt. H. Billingshaver, will send their band and company, and Capt. R. Dale Joffe will bring his company from Charleroi. Company I of the Boys' Brigade, and companies from other nearby towns will also be here.

The Rifles will on the morning of August 30 erect their headquarters on Kyle's lawn, opposite the armory, which has been turned over to the Ringgold veterans. At 3 o'clock they will officially open their headquarters with guard mount ceremonies. Rev. O. D. Patterson, chaplain of the Brownsville Light Infantry, has been invited to make an address at this time.

Miss Goldsmith Elected a Teacher

On the third ballot last evening Miss Helen J. Goldsmith was elected by the School Board to succeed Miss Eugene Porter as a primary teacher from a field of eight applicants. Miss Goldsmith is a daughter of Henry Goldsmith, graduated in the class of 1909, of which she was the valedictorian, and since that time has attended both the California and West Chester State Normal schools, the latter being considered one of the finest in the State.

The board decided to defer until the next regular meeting the question whether Thomas H. Brown, a colored teacher of the West Side, should be permitted to use one room of the Sixth ward building for a class of Italians which has outgrown its present quarters, a room in Philip Pege's home.

The board voted to redeem seven bonds of the old High School issue, totalling $3,500. There is $5,000 outstanding of this issue and all of the bonds fall due in 1915. The board has the privilege of redeeming at will on interest bearing months, falling next October, and notice will be given that seven of the bonds will be taken up. There is $4,305 in the sinking fund and more will be paid in before the bonds are taken up. No other bonds at higher interest can be redeemed at this time. Chairman Armstrong of the Finance Committee stated that in 1913 all the outstanding bonded indebtedness of the district will be cleared up except the issue for the new High School addition.

The sample contract drawn up by Attorney E. C. Higbee was accepted by the board. One of the provisions includes the board's right to deduct $10 from salaries of teachers who fail to attend the institute, one of the provisions of the new school code. To adjust salaries, equitably, the board voted to pay Miss Ella Davis and Miss Beulah Francis $80 per month each. Under the sliding scale of salaries they would have been entitled to less than this amount. Last year Miss Francis received $65 but taught the only No. 9 room in the district and her duties this year will be less difficult. Secretary Thomas explained.

The board adjourned at 8:30. Members present were Directors Armstrong, Baisley, Bishop, Buffumore, Darr, Davidson, Farnsworth, Gallagher, Hart, Herpich, Hoffman, Long, Mason, Metzger, Rose, R. O. Thomas, B. J. Thomas and White.

Court's Decree Corrects a Deed

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.
SOMERSET, Aug. 22.—Judge Kosser this morning made a decree correcting a deed conveying the tract of land occupied by the Cook woolen mills, just south of town, from Jonas M. Cook to Cook, Emert & Company. This conveyance by mistake failed to include an old water right belonging to the John Kantner estate, who operated the old Kantner woolen mill by water power secured from a dam on Cox's creek.

The mill was recently sold as the property of Cook, Emert & Company, at Sheriff's sale, being purchased by Jonas M. Cook, the present owner and operator of the mill. The location of the B. & O. yards on the site of Kantner's dam, it is claimed, destroyed the old water right, which is yet of considerable value, it seems. The ground on which the Cook mill is located will likely be appropriated by the railroad company for the site for the yards. Before Cook could convey the property, including the water right, it seems, it was necessary for him to have the deeds conveying the same corrected in order to establish definite title to the premises.

The matter was brought before the court on equity proceedings.

COAL PRODUCTION

In the State of Maryland During the Year 1910.

The production of coal in Maryland in 1910 was 5,217,125 short tons, with a spot value of $5,845,958, according to statistics collected by the United States Geological Survey in cooperation with the Maryland Geological Survey. Maryland, like Virginia, benefited indirectly from the six months' strike among the miners in the Central or Mississippi Valley States. Owing to the shortage of fuel in the Western States a large amount of West Virginia coal, particularly from the southern part of the State, was diverted from the seaboard to the temporarily more profitable markets in the West. Profiting by this diversion, Virginia's production, shipped principally to Lambert Point pier near Norfolk, increased over 1,750,000 tons, or 37 per cent.

Maryland's coal production, which because of the approaching exhaustion of the famous "Big vein," had been showing a declining tendency for the last two years, was also given an impetus by the trade conditions of 1910 and increased from that of 1909 by 1,195,851 tons, or 29.67 per cent. The value increased $1,565,927, or 39.5 per cent.

The coal mines of Maryland gave employment in 1910 to 5,509 men, also worked the unusually high average of 270 days, and although 97 per cent of Maryland's tonnage is hand mined the average productive efficiency of the miners is considerably above the mean average for all the States. In 1910 the average production for each man employed was 87½ short tons for the year and 3.37 tons for each working day. No labor troubles were reported in the coal mines of Maryland in 1910. The mines are operated 19 hours a day.

Although coal was discovered in the Georges Creek basin as early as 1742, the first commercial shipments from the Maryland coal district were not made until 1830, when small quantities were transported by barge down Potomac river. The first company was incorporated in 1836. After the construction of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, in 1812, and of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal in 1850, the output from the Maryland mines increased rapidly.

Maryland and the adjoining counties in West Virginia which take up what is known as the Cumberland region constitute the only districts outside of the anthracite region of Pennsylvania where records of coal production have been kept from the earliest years. On deducting the total exhaustion from the original supply, it was found that at the close of 1907 there still remained in the coal fields of Maryland 7,802,000,000 tons, which is 1.16th times the production of 1910 and over 500 times the exhaustion represented by that production.

The LASH of CIRCUMSTANCE

By HARRY IRVING GREENE
Author of "Yosonde of the Wilderness"
Illustrations by Magnus G. Kuttner

In the instant of heavy hanging silence which followed I shot a glance at Mrs. Dace. She had leaped slightly forward, her hands clenched and her ears strained in the direction of the door. Then the notes of the man arose again, a sullen growl sounding through them.

"Did she order you to tell me this nonsense or are you acting upon your own responsibility?" The voice of the yellow girl, throbbing respectfully, took on a cold insolence.

"That is a matter for you to form your own opinion about. At least I am willing to accept any responsibility for what I may tell you. You may ask her concerning it when you see her again."

Plainly and distinctly Mackay swore, and I saw the door yield slightly to the pressure of a heavy hand from without. In the twinkling of an eye the man's slender figure became that of an enraged giant, and her tones rang out with positive violence.

"If you try to force your way in here against me I will have you thrown head and heels into the street by the employees. Release that door instantly!"

He swore again, the pressure ceased and I heard his heavy step as it retreated down the hall. In a trice the maid had closed the door behind him and stood before us with a hot flush upon her face and her eyes averted. Mrs. Dace drew a long breath and her form and features softened. Once more she became the low spoken, perfectly self-controlled woman of the minute before. "You did very well, Janet. I think that is all for the present. You may return now." Notwithstanding the girl slipped past us and disappeared behind the portiere.

I turned to her mistress. "What does this mean, Mattie?" I asked a little, but with the eking suggestion that I had experienced once before, making my knees weak and my throat dry. She faced me with an almost imperceptible lifting of her eyebrows and shoulders.

"So far as I know it means nothing except that Mr. Mackay has been drinking and wished to see me for some reason of which I am as ignorant as you are."

"But at this hour of the night? It seems strange that even a man like him should have the presumption to call I think under the circumstances I have a right to inquire. Does he sometimes do such things?"

"He never has before. He had no right to do so now. If it is a matter of important business he should have notified me of his coming at least a few moments in advance."

"But what business could he possibly wish to confer with you about at such a time of night that could not be transacted over the telephone?" I pursued unavailingly. She waved her hand.

"I am sure that I am an ignorant and disturbed over the affair as you can possibly be. When I see him again I shall demand an explanation. Then I will be able to tell you."

"And those rings—they sounded almost like a signal—one short and two long ones?"

"It is one of his peculiarities. I think he so announces himself everywhere." She came close beside me, dropping her hand upon my shoulder. "You told me once that you would never mistrust me again. You are doing so now. I cannot wholly control the actions of others, and there are reasons why I do not wish to quarrel with Mr. Mackay unless I am driven to it. Your jealousy may ruin our prospects and make us bad friends after all. I do not feel flattered by it."

I got upon my feet and slipped my arm about her. "You must forgive me once more, dearest. While I admit that my love is a jealous one, yet where my heart is my faith also resides. I trust you implicitly and will ask you nothing further." I was very much surprised, then, when she said:

"She smiled at me with a sweetness that was incomparable, and for an instant her palm held my cheek. 'You had better go now, Tom. It really is late and I am just plain, physically tired. You may kiss me good night if you wish—just once.'"

She turned her cheek to me and my lips paid reverential tribute to it. She accompanied me to the door, her hands closed above my elbow, blew me a farewell from finger tips that touched her lips and disappeared behind the closed panel. Sobored of spirit by the occurrence of a few minutes before, and despite myself somewhat depressed by thoughts which notwithstanding the fact that I would not permit them to crowd themselves into my brain, nevertheless hovered upon the horizon of it, I started homeward on a brisk walk after having ordered the car, now here, to one of the garages within the building.

A vacant lot with a path cutting diagonally across it spread itself before me, and in accordance with my usual custom I took this short cut as a sever of steps. The remains of a natural grove were scattered through out it, and upon its center the night shadows lay heavily. As I passed an oak that leaned over the path I was conscious of a slight rustling movement at my back and ducked my head with an involuntary quickness that was the gift of a natural boxer. Then I whirled with my heel for a pivot.

Close behind me through the dark I saw a big form lurch across the way

I had just left behind me, thrown completely from its balance by a terrific blow that had been wasted in the empty air. In a flash I became a fighting machine; my fists knotted and muscles hardened as with my guard raised I edged towards him, on this alert for either attack or defense. At the same instant he regained his balance and came towards me. "You puppy," growled the heavy voice of Mackay.

Cold as ice externally, but nevertheless with the fires of satisfaction burning fiercely within, I stepped backward and to one side, my left hand darting towards him in rapid folds. Knowing the man's reputation as I did, I was not in the least surprised at his attempted thugery, and I now determined to give him the worst beating I was capable of without using more than my fists or endangering his life. His reputation was as an open book. When sober he used his brains for the destruction of his enemies, but when drunk the beast within him arose raging and many was the man who, crossing him in his cups, had been felled unconscious by his great fist. Inactively disliking him to the very core of my being, raging inwardly at the cowardliness of his attack, I stopped his approach by a straight left-hand blow that cracked like the report of a pistol and sent his head rocking. He was probably as powerful a man as myself, but much slower, much older and in much poorer condition physically and mentally. His bear-like rushes and swings I evaded without difficulty, sending his head backward with short, quick blows until his wine-filled mind whirled and he staggered as he tried to reach me. My time had come and deliberately I took full advantage of it.

For the first time I used my right hand, sending it over his guard with the viciousness with which I would have struck at the head of a serpent. He spun in his tracks, throw up his hands and came down like a falling wall.

I stepped back, readjusted my coat and stood waiting. Perhaps thirty seconds later he stirred and climbed to his feet after several unsuccessful efforts and stood rocking in his tracks as he wiped the blood from his face and glared at me. "If I don't get you for this you will be the first one that Theatrical News.

Paul and Win Morgan in 'The Night Rider,' at the Soisson Tomorrow.

THE SOISSON.

"The Night Rider."

The young district attorney, Ben Stevens, in "The Night Rider," the sensational play which will be seen at the Soisson theatre Wednesday, August 23, is a man who has the courage of his convictions. He has entered the political arena in order to rid the country of the corruption instituted by an organized band of night riders, a band of men of wealth and education, and who have not hesitated to buy up judges and jurists so that their man can escape the punishment which would otherwise befall them.

When the play opens we find young Ben Stevens, a candidate for the office of district attorney with the powerful opposition of the night rider faction arrayed against him. We also find him as the accepted suitor for the hand of the young and beautiful daughter of Judge Andrews, a man in the pay of the notorious night rider gang, which is determined to control the output of the entire tobacco crop.

According to their standard of morals it is deemed expedient to bribe the young candidate so that if he succeeds in being elected he would be another tool for the night rider machine. This is attempted with an offer of fifty thousand dollars in cash and the hand of the Judge's daughter, to, but restrained from further questioning by the manner of his refusal to enlighten me, we continued our way for some distance without further conversation. In a certain sense his statement was a shock to me, and I could not rid myself of a haunting impression that when he made his disclosures there would be disagreeable facts revealed. Yet my curiosity could hardly have been at a higher point.

"Are you positive?" I ventured after a while. If there was any doubt in his mind as to the identity of the criminal his voice did not betray it.

"As absolutely sure in my own mind as though I had been hidden in the room and seen him. But you know proving these matters to the satisfaction of other people is quite another proposition, and it is the proof that will convince those who do not wish to be convinced that I am after now."

He turned to me with a slow scrutiny of my face. But I am going to get that proof tonight, and I want you to help me."

I pondered his proposition over briefly. I could see no objection to acting upon his suggestion and it might give me an inkling of whom he had in his mind. Therefore after a short reflection I agreed. Very well, I will give you any assistance that I can. Where are you going and what do you want me to do? He pulled out his watch.

"It is nine o'clock now and is as dark as it is going to be tonight. We can take a stroll around and inspect the place I want to visit. If the coast is clear we will go ahead. If not we can wait until it is. He uttered a little chuckle. "For your information I will say that I am going to commit a burglary on my own hook." I must have hesitated a little in my pace for he laughed and taking me by the arm led me, half resisting, with him.

"Also, for the easement of your mind I will tell you that you need not worry about the criminality of the thing. I give you my word as a detective and therefore necessarily as a gentleman that what I am after has no intrinsic value. It is nothing but evidence, without value to the one who is to young Stevens' sweetheart otherwise her father's failure to sanction the marriage and his financial ruin is threatened as the price of his disobedience to the dictates of corrupt party politics.

The story of how he marries the girl of his choice in spite of opposition resists bribery, and triumphs ultimately over the night riders makes the character of Stevens one of the most interesting and inspiring seen on the American stage in the past decade.

"The High Flyers." The High Flyers come to the Soisson Thursday, August 24, and one of the leading features will be Princess Rahbar, the wonderful dancer, who has scored a complete triumph on the New York roof gardens during the past summer and was way for two years the reigning star of the French vaudeville of Paris.

The show abounds in opportunities for effective scenic display and picturesque tableaux which have been taken on the fullest advantage of and there is a display of electrical equipment which gives to the production a beauty rarely seen in this style of amusement.

Among the principals who are responsible for much of the brilliancy of the burlesque are: Louis Leno, Art, Pierce, Miss. Georgina Brandon, J. Barton Lewis, Margaret Wilson and others.

furnish it but is of great value to me in proving my case. Moreover, the one from whom I will get it will know nothing about it until the time comes for me to denounce him. There is this slight risk about the transaction, however. If you should be detected in our act by some officer we would be arrested, and that would probably involve the disagreeable necessity of our going to headquarters and making an explanation. But you need have no fear of its going any further than that. The police officials know me and I could readily satisfy them of our guiltlessness of anything more than a necessary technical offense committed in the unearthing of a serious crime. But it will be a forcible entry, and will have all the outside earmarks of a malicious offense, and I need your help to put it through successfully. Are you prepared for it now?"

I told him that while such things were not exactly in my line, that relying upon his assurances I would put myself in his hands, and he led me down a street that branched from the brightly lighted main thoroughfare which we had been pursuing into a less lighted section. For several blocks we continued our way under the scattering street lights of a section of the wholesale district which was practically abandoned of nights in front of a darkness haunted alley we came to a standstill. On each side of it towered great buildings with darkened windows and with a quick glance around to make sure that no one observed us, he motioned for me to follow him. Keep your eyes open for private watchmen—they are the fellows we have got to look out for."

He whispered as we hastened through the gloom. Absolutely ignorant of what he was about to drag me into I felt my heart beat faster as I trod close at his heels. Half way through the block he stopped and I saw dimly before us an iron fire escape that zigzagged its way upward and disappeared in the blackness above. It is a case of climb from now on. Just follow me, he instructed. Although not at all in love with the proposition, I grasped the round of the structure and mounted upward close under him.

Randall Parrish

Fifty Years Ago

The titanic struggle between the North and South was being waged. The semi-centennial of this greatest of all modern wars makes everything pertaining to it of peculiar interest at the present time, and a stirring Civil War story is particularly appropriate now. It is for that reason we have arranged to print:

My Lady of the North

By RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "Bob Hampton of Placer," "Keith of the Border," etc.

This is the greatest of all the great historical stories Mr. Parrish has given to American readers. It is a swift, intense, adventurous romance, with some mystery, as much action as is possible to crowd into one story, plenty of realism of what may be termed the romantic variety, and a glow which will enlist your sympathies as well as your attention.

On a black night as any daring soldier could ask, a cavalry captain rode out from the Army of Northern Virginia to carry certain dispatches from General Lee through the Union Lines. The officer is Captain Philip Wayne, and a gallant Virginian in every sense of the word. He is at once plunged from one dangerous adventure into another, and the dashing style in which he describes them will keep you enthusiastic and fairly breathless in your effort to keep up.

You Will Not Want to Miss a Single Line of the Story and We Strongly Advise You to Watch for the Opening Chapter

At the fourth story he stepped aside upon a narrow platform that branched out from the ladder in front of a window. The exertion had been quite severe, and we were both breathing rather heavily as I took my place by his side.

"Best kind of exercise for the appetite. Ought to get up every morning and do it for a couple of hours before breakfast," he panted. "This is the place I want to get into—this window here. He tapped on the glass before him with his finger. 'And now comes the thing that I want you to assist me in doing. I have got to cut a circle out of that glass in order to rise the catch and in doing it I am going to show you a trick of the corksman's trade. Take this piece of soft putty and press it firmly against the glass with your right thumb while I cut out a piece of the pane around it. The putty will adhere to the glass and to your thumb, and you can thus keep it from dropping and making a racket when it is loosened. See the point?' Now keep on pressing as I tell you. Placing my thumb tightly against the soft ball, I pushed steadily as with some instrument he scratched and grated harshly as he circled my hand. In perhaps five minutes there was a slight crack and he struck the circle a quick blow. The next instant I found a circular disk dangling from my thumb."

Moyer Loaded Up But Score is Tie

Moyer loaded up with clever talent from Connellsville, Dunbar and intermediate points yesterday, and met Wheeler on the Sligo field looking for a cure. The teams played five innings with no decision being reached. Although apparently outclassed, Wheeler battled desperately, scoring four runs in the third inning. Moyer tied the score in the fourth and both teams added another in the fifth, when the game was called. The score:

Edenborn Out of Running for Cup

Unless the unexpected and almost impossible happens, Edenborn has been eliminated from consideration as a pennant possibility in the Lehigh cup series as a result of the defeat at the hands of Lehigh last evening. Southwest also went down to defeat at the hands of Hecla No. 2 and the Trauger boys are the most dangerous rivals Lehighing has in the chase for the goblet.

Lewistown defeated Edenborn 11 to 5 and it was staged on the losing team's own diamond. Southwest No. 1 went over to Trauger where Hecla No. 2 won, 11 to 7.

The race promises to develop into a neck and neck struggle between Trauger and Lehighing. Trauger has lost one game and played one more than Lehighing, the undefeated, so far. Edenborn comes to Lehighing Thursday and Superintendent Frunk will take his boys to Mt. Pleasant Saturday for a clash with Southwest No. 1. Hecla No. 2 goes to Edinboro-Wynn tomorrow.

A Tournament for Tennis Players

Cards went out yesterday announcing the first Annual Tournament of the Tennis Association for the championship of Fayette county, beginning Thursday, September 14, 1911. While given under the auspices of the Uniontown association, it is a county affair and is open to players from any place in the county. The association has a tournament each fall open to club members, but that will not be held this year.

Dawson, Brownsville, Connellsville and Uniontown will have players entered for the different events and the tournament will bring out some fine matches. The public is cordially invited to attend the matches.

Frank M. Semans and L. E. Deall have kindly loaned the association the use of their private courts and Mr. Semans has offered the use of his autos to convey the players from court to court.

The tournament committee consists of Harold G. Sturgis, Dr. H. W. Marsh, F. P. Truesdale, C. L. Vinton, and J. D. Armstrong. The tournament is open to all players residing in Fayette county. Entrance fees of $1.50 will be charged for singles and $2 a pair for doubles, which must be sent with entry to Harold G. Sturgis of the tournament committee, not later than Saturday, September 9, after which drawings will be made and posted. The committee reserves the right to reject any entry at any time.

The tournament will be under the auspices of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association and its rules will govern. There will be men's singles, men's doubles, ladies' singles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles. All matches will be best two out of three vintage sets, except finals in men's events which will be best three out of five vintage sets. Wright and Wilson tennis balls will be used.

Play will begin at 2 P. M. Thursday, September 14, and continue through Friday and Saturday at 9:30 A. M. and 2 P. M. each day. The order of the matches and as nearly as possible the hour will be posted on the grounds and contestants will be expected to report at the times set. After ten minutes' grace any player not appearing may be scratched, unless previous notice has been given the referee. No player will be defaulted on Thursday afternoon. Suitable prizes will be given the winners of the various events.

In October there will be a series of exhibition matches played on the Semans courts by some of the crack players in the United States, a number of them having promised Mr. Semans to come on then. Among them are W. A. Larned, Percy D. Silver and others.

Mr. Larned is for the sixth time champion of the United States, holding that honor at the present time. Today, at Newport, 299 of the leading players from all over the country start an elimination tournament for the honor of challenging his right to the title. He has few equals in the tennis world.

Mr. Silver is champion of Western Pennsylvania, for the third successive year, having won the Gorton cup several weeks ago in the tournament given by the Pittsburgh Hotel Club. He also did good work at the tournament held at Omaha the first of the month and local players will be greatly interested in watching his playing.

FOR THE HUNTRESS.

Jaunty Sporting Costume
Both Practical and Pretty.

WHEN MARY GOES A-HUNTING.

Jaunty and appropriate in the hunting costume illustrated, suitable alike for bagging big game in Africa, when made of the right material, or for bringing down small game in this country.

The skirt is short and buttons down one side of the front with substantial bone buttons. The Norfolk jacket fits the figure comfortably and is of easy looking. A plique four in hand and corduroy cap complete a smart outfit for this particular sport. The costume would be equally good for mountain climbing.

Scottdale Nearly Had Another Fire

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Aug. 22.—Had it not been for the long hours that Samuel O. Steiner put in at the Steiner Brothers' tobacco store yesterday, and the unrelenting heat over what he thought was the smell of burning wood, Scottdale would have had a big fire last night. When ready to close up at 10:20 Mr. Steiner thought he smelled woodburning. He was not certain but the odor kept him uneasy. After he had turned the lights out and closed the door he opened the door again, went back into the store and lighted the lamp and then started to go down cellar to investigate.

Going through the cellar and to the back door, he found the cause of the odor, for at the rear of M. M. Trout's butcher shop there was a pile of boxes blazing. There is a three cornered enclosure there, with a stairway to the second story, and the blaze could not be seen at any distance. The fire was burning fiercely and the blaze was going against the door of Trout's. Mr. Steiner called to Dennis Dehaven the restaurant man next door to the MacBeth & Taylor store and the restaurant and Dehaven and Steiner, with buckets, put out the fire. The block is a frame one owned by L. P. Miller, and the fire would soon have had it all going. The Scottdale House fire recently seems to have started in about the same way, a blaze at a back door.

Soft White Felt Hats

A NEW MILLINERY VOGUE.

"Across the water the great modistes are showing soft white and light colored felt hats trimmed with a simple band for the Deauville season." From a recent fashion note. In the Wright-Metzler Millinery rooms are examples of those new and attractive white felt hats, some inexpensive ones, having merely a band around them—just the thing for the present season as well as for Autumn. Touches of color are distinctive notes of others, while a few have but a single wing as trimming.

This new vogue combines the most attractive sort of hats with serviceability, as the soft shapes may be battered around to the heart's content and be little the worse for it.
